Local Students Make Music to benefit Hospice of Orleans

Albion, NY – Bonnie Heck knows all too well the benefit of Hospice in her community. Following the recent loss of her mother, she knew that she wanted to help Hospice make a difference for others.

Bonnie lives in Lyndonville and teaches piano to local students both at home and at the Gotta Dance Studio in Albion. “I knew of Hospice, but did not know of all of the many services that they provide. Flo Johnston, our Hospice aide, was absolutely wonderful and would bring numerous extra special comfort items to my mom. As someone who adored music, my mother’s wish was that Hospice should benefit from the Piano Recital. It seemed like an excellent way to repay Hospice for all of their amazing care”.

Participation was optional, yet every single student got involved and did their part in the raising of $2,252. Thank you!
